

OCT 17 1924

©CIL 20669 C

JUST LUCKY.

Photoplay in two reels

Directed by Eugene DeRue

Author of the Photoplay (under section 62)
Arrow Film Corporation of U.S.

©CIL 20669

Synopsis

"JUST LUCKY"

OCT 17 1924

The grocery clerk is at his wits end to stop the store loungers from stealing crackers and prunes, so in the box of crackers he puts a piece of fly paper and in the box of prunes, a mouse trap.

The next cracker taken causes plenty of excitement. In trying to get rid of the fly paper, it is thrown in the face of the next man who in turn throws it further and it lands in the whiskers of his neighbor. When finally it is extricated, it goes the rounds until everybody in the store has had a taste of its stickiness.

Then the mail comes in. The grocery clerk is handed a large package and he proceeds to open it before his large audience of bystanders. It contains a diploma, badge and disguises of a detective, over which everyone is enthused.

Suddenly the town officials ride up with a reward notice of $1000 to be paid for the capture of an escaped convict, and the grocery clerk decides to match wits with the townfolks and get the reward.

He chases the town dude, who starts out to meet his girl, daughter of the grocery store keeper, and who sits on a freshly painted bench, giving his suit the appearance of broad stripes. After the mistake has been discovered, he walks further and bumps into the real convict. The chase starts. Around buildings, stores, lumber yards, and every space into which one can dart in and out. Finally the convict emerges wearing the clerk's suit. The clerk is wearing stripes. Now the town officials see him and shoot at him.

The convict walks into the grocery store wearing the clerk's suit and the store keeper mistaking him for his clerk, hands him his cash and pointing to the open safe, tells him to put it in there, and watch it. He puts it in his pocket instead.

The clerk shows up and the storekeeper discovers his mistake. Again a chase is started. Finally the clerk catches and brings in his captive. He is handed the $1000 reward by the official and the father gives him his daughter.

This document is from the Library of Congress
“Motion Picture Copyright Descriptions Collection,
1912-1977”

Collections Summary:

The Motion Picture Copyright Descriptions Collection, Class L and Class M, consists of forms, abstracts, plot summaries, dialogue and continuity scripts, press kits, publicity and other material, submitted for the purpose of enabling descriptive cataloging for motion picture photoplays registered with the United States Copyright Office under Class L and Class M from 1912-1977.

Class L Finding Aid:

<https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mbrsmi/eadmbrsmi.mi020004>

Class M Finding Aid:

<https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mbrsmi/eadmbrsmi.mi021002>

National Audio-Visual Conservation Center
The Library of Congress